Property Description

This property is a rare find, as it is a four-bedroom period terrace property that is not often available on the market. It is an ideal family home, situated in a fantastic location that is conveniently close to both Brighton and Hove stations. The property boasts a wealth of period features, adding to its charm and character.

One of the highlights of this property is its sunny rear garden, providing a pleasant outdoor space for relaxation and entertainment. Additionally, St Ann's Well's park and Dyke Road are also within close proximity, offering opportunities for outdoor activities and leisurely walks.

The property is being sold with no onward chain, which means that there are no complications or delays associated with the sale. It has been used as a family home since 1966, indicating that it has been well-maintained and cared for over the years.

Furthermore, it holds historical significance as it is the original builder's property dating back to the 1800s, adding a sense of heritage and nostalgia to the home.
